Explanatory notes outlining how this submission supports the bridging of positions on the issue at hand	This proposal could contribute to a possible solution for article 3 on the issue of any potential global list of plastic products to be regulate. In such case, the national circumstances and capabilities shall be recognized through the possibility that a Party country can decide by itself if it is not able to get a commitment on any listed product, presenting an specific reservation.

Article 29 Reservations

The proposal from Cuba consists of replacing para 1 of the Chair's text and adding new para 2 and 3

1. The provisions of the present Convention shall not be subject to general reservations. Specific reservations may be entered in accordance with the provisions of this Article and Article [3].
2. Any Party State may present a specific reservation with regard to any plastic product in a possible list of plastic products to be regulated.
3. Until a Party withdraws its reservation entered under the provisions of this Article, it shall be treated as a State not a Party to the present Convention with respect to any commitment on a particular plastic product specified in such reservation.
