

Mongolia's Intervention on Article 8. Plastic waste management

We would like to express our strong support for the interventions made by other delegates.

As binding targets are essential for achieving transformative change, we think the treaty must establish globally binding EPR schemes to ensure producers are accountable for the entire lifecycle of their products, covering design, production, and post-consumer management.

- We propose the following text on Article 8. Plastic waste management, para 4 on EPR:
Each Party shall [take measures to facilitate the development of] (del) establish extended producer responsibility systems within its jurisdiction [that hold producers accountable for the full lifecycle of plastic products.]
- We propose to add the following text in Article 8:
[bis The Conference of the Parties shall adopt guidance on EPR schemes and recycling infrastructure development at its first meeting.]
