

On the scope

Egypt supports having a standalone article for scope

The Scope of the international instrument should be within the mandate of the UNEA Res 5/14, that targets namely plastic pollution rather than the plastic production and industry, taking into consideration the relevant socio-economic implications.

Noting that the feedstock including hydrocarbons, monomers and polymers in primary forms excluded from the scope, without prejudice to environment and human health while utilizing an effective sustainable production and consumptions approaches
