Closing plenary – Intersessional work

The UK would like to extend our sincerest gratitude to France for hosting INC-2 in this beautiful city and look forward to the future INCs in Kenya, Canada and Republic of Korea. I would also like to thank the Secretariat, interpreters and everyone in this room for their engagement in such fruitful discussions.

We think that it is important to continue the momentum of discussions here at INC-2 into the intersessional period. In this respect, the UK will consider how it can support intersessional work in bringing together technical experts to inform our future discussions on plastic chemicals and polymers of concern, and problematic plastic products.
