Thank you Mr Co Facilitator.

Regarding the governing body, we support establishment of a COP.

The instrument should have a permanent secretariat.

For meeting the objectives of the instrument, the instrument should have a body to assess the means of implementation, including through a dedicated multilateral funding mechanism, in a dynamic manner taking into account national circumstances and capabilities for meeting each of the substantive obligations as agreed to under the instrument.

The instrument should have technical and scientific committees in the form of subsidiary bodies that would guide in informed decision making as well as effective implementation.

It is also important to have a subsidiary body that facilitates technology transfer to developing countries through innovative mechanisms.

Thank you.
